NON COOPERATION MOVEMENT(1920-1922)

The Non-Cooperation Movement (1920-1922), led by Mahatma Gandhi, was a peaceful protest against British rule in India. It involved boycotting British goods, institutions, and honors, promoting self-reliance through indigenous products, and striving for self-governance. The movement was suspended after the Chauri Chaura incident in 1922.

India got independence (1947)

On August 15, 1947, India achieved independence from British rule through the Indian Independence Act. This legislation led to the partition of British India into two sovereign nations: India and Pakistan. The transition was marked by significant challenges, including mass migrations and communal violence, as millions relocated based on religious affiliations.

QUIT INDIA MOVEMENT(1942)

The Quit India Movement, initiated by Mahatma Gandhi on August 8, 1942, demanded the immediate end of British rule in India. Despite mass arrests and suppression, it intensified India's push for independence.
